

ON THEIR BIKES: Iain, left, George and Colin. Picture: GREG MACVEAN

Saddling up for charity

LIKE most fathers, Colin Read would go to great lengths to see a smile on his son's face.

But five-year-old George was born with the rare condition, Moebius syndrome, which means he can't smile, blink or frown.

Now Colin, from Port Seton, and his friend Iain

Whyte, are planning to motorcyle across America to raise money for research into the condition.

They will wear kilts for the 2913 mile journey, which will take ten days. They hope to raise £200,000 for the Moebius Research Trust.

For more information see www.kiltsacrossamerica.co.uk